Lubricity® for Dry Mouth

Lubricity Dry Mouth Oral Spray was born out of the need for a saliva substitute. Many medications (including cannabis) and surgical procedures can damage the salivary glands producing symptoms of dry mouth. Chemotherapy is another driver of dry mouth symptoms and for years chemotherapy patients have used cannabis to ease the nausea associated with treatment causing even worse dry mouth symptoms.

Fast forward to today where cannabis laws have been greatly relaxed and retail establishments are popping up everywhere. The underlying causes of dry mouth are still present and cannabis use is increasing rapidly.

Dry mouth can significantly damage the teeth and have other health effects decreasing the quality of life. The new generation of cannabis users are at a greater risk of these negative effects. Retail vendors have an opportunity to offer customers relief from dry mouth as a supplemental purchase.

Lubricity uses FDA safe ingredients, is tasteless, and is effective when used as directed.
